

Editorial Board Member Recruitment - Canadian Journal of Community Mental Health

The Canadian Journal of Community Mental Health (CJCMH) has been publishing research related to community mental health since 1982. In January 2026, we became a diamond open access journal, meaning that we publish research at no cost to authors immediately on publication. This has been made possible through the generous funding of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

CJCMH is currently seeking interested individuals to join its Editorial Board. This is an opportunity to contribute to the ongoing development and strategic direction of a journal dedicated to advancing knowledge, research, policy, and practice in community mental health in Canada and beyond.

Areas of Expertise Sought

We are particularly interested in applicants who are fluent in French or bilingual (French and English), as well as applicants with expertise in one or more of the following areas:

- Substance use health
- Harm reduction
- Child and youth mental health
- Race and mental health
- Indigenous mental health

Researchers and professionals with other areas of expertise relevant to community mental health are also encouraged to express their interest.

Role Responsibilities

Editorial Board Members/Peer Reviewers will be expected to:

- Attend approximately one to two Editorial Board meetings per year;
- Complete peer reviews for a minimum of two manuscripts per year submitted to the journal;
- Provide input regarding the strategic direction and future development of the journal through periodic email consultations, surveys, or other requests for feedback throughout the year; and
- Contribute their expertise and perspectives to support the continued growth and impact of the Canadian Journal of Community Mental Health.

Benefits of the Role

Serving on the Editorial Board provides an opportunity to:

- Contribute to decisions that will influence the direction and future development of the journal;
- Share research and professional expertise with the broader scientific and scholarly community;
- Help shape future research, policy, and practice in community mental health across Canada and beyond;
- Contribute to the advancement of high-quality scholarship in community mental health; and
- Engage with a network of researchers, scholars, and professionals committed to strengthening community mental health knowledge and practice.

Term of Appointment

The term for the Peer Reviewer position is two years and is renewable.

How to Apply

Interested applicants should submit:

1. A letter of interest describing their language competencies, relevant expertise and areas of research or professional specialization; and
2. A current curriculum vitae (CV)

Application deadline: September 30, 2026

We welcome expressions of interest from individuals whose expertise and perspectives can contribute to the diversity, quality, and continued development of scholarship in community mental health.

Applications can be forwarded to Dr. Carrie Anne Marshall, Editor-in-Chief, c/o Siana Shemshedini, our journal's administrative assistant at admin.cjcmh@cpcstudies.com
